Understanding Light on Form Workshop

With Jennifer Fairbanks

Saturday, May 19, 2018

10:00 - 2:00

Registration deadline - May 15

Workshop held at Jeffers' Bend

Environmental Center

1200 Vine Street, Hopkinsville, KY

Turn onto Metcalf Lane from North Main just past Riverside Cemetery entrance. Travel over the railroad and around the new Water Treatment facility to the right and we will meet in the building with the painted water cycle mural on the side.

How to create believable volume in your still life objects

In this workshop participants will learn the classical structure of light on basic forms and how to translate that into the more complicated objects they are painting. We will be working in gray scale in order to focus on value. Depending on the number of students who enroll, we will either work from still life set ups or photos.

Supply List:

Oil Paints: Ivory Black, Raw Umber and white

Variety of brushes

Paper towels

Palette

Artist grade mineral spirits (not type sold in hardware stores, but purchased at art store)

Canvas, approximately 11"x14"

About the Instructor:

Jennifer Fairbanks was raised in Western Kentucky. In 1994 she received her Bachelor's degree from Murray State University with an emphasis on painting and ceramics. During this time she also began to pursue training in classical painting techniques with portrait artist Joy Thomas. This interest led her to New York, where she was able to relocate in 1998 through a grant from the Kentucky Arts Council. Jennifer studied figurative and portrait painting with Ron Sherr and Mary Beth McKenzie at the Art Students League and the National Academy of Design. In 2003 she received her Master's degree from New York University in Art Therapy. She has exhibited in numerous group and solo shows in New York, Kentucky and Spain.

After eleven years in New York City, Jennifer decided to return to her hometown of Murray to open a gallery and private studio concentrating on contemporary figurative art with an emphasis on traditional techniques.

This class is limited to 12 participants. Deadline to register May 15, 2018
